Short Biography

I am a Kenyan by birth. I have a PhD in Agricultural Extension from Egerton University. I successfully defended my PhD proposal that focuses on enhancing youth participation in Agriculture at both the Department and faculty level, successfully collected my data and now carrying out data analysis. I have Msc, Bsc and a Diploma in Agricultural Education and Extension from Egerton University.

I have taught secondary school Agriculture and Biology for 12 years during which I served as the Head of Applied Science Department, Young farmers Patron for five years, Secretary of NAPA-HICA in Langa'ta District and an official of NAPA-HICA in Nairobi County for two years. I have also taught as a part time lecturer in Kenyatta University in the Department of Agricultural Resource Management and in Laikipia University in the Department of Curriculum and Educational Management
